

“JUST-IN TIME RESUME GENERATOR ABSTRACT:”

PITCH:

As someone who has worked multiple jobs, leveled up in their profession, and went from working a 9-5 to being self-employed, I always recognized and understood the crucial importance of having a good resume. Although many people seek financial freedom and the modern social media landscape promotes more than ever being your own boss and not conforming to corporate structure, which is where resumes are most prevalent, I still understood that approximately 95% of humans work jobs with power structures that require a well-constructed resume in order to earn promotions, higher pay, and better connections. Now, when we made the decision to construct a resume generator for the class final project, it felt like I was going against my beliefs, ideals, and dreams. I was promoting a dream-thieving software that'll ensure my users earn a high-paying, secure, and optimal occupation in a corporate structure.

I don't half-do anything, this is why I had to pivot my mindset in order to develop the most efficient and concise resume generator for my clients/users. Essentially, the best and most successful products in the world solve problems. I asked myself what's a big problem... There is an insanely high amount of overqualified people that work mundane jobs because of their inability to construct a well-thought-out resume that properly depicts their talents. This is when I decided I wanted to be a giver. And I wanted to give value to society. This is why we created the “Just-In-Time Resume Generator,” the first of its kind. A gift and honest contribution to society to give people what they deserve. I even view it as a ticket to entrepreneurship and self-employment. Yes, our product promotes the corporate structure of employment that I have serious distaste for. But, yes our product will give society their most deserving position in life and accelerate their journey to freedom. As you get a better job, your horizon expands and your pay increases, therefore gradually leading to your financial freedom. Ultimately, this pivot in my mindset led to an incredibly high-value product that'll live far beyond this class final project.
